

Lawrence Hapeman

PhD Student in Comparative Literature at Binghamton University

lhapeman@binghamton.edu | +1 414-617-1136 | Binghamton, NY

Website: funkyghost617.xyz

Education

Binghamton University (2026 – present)

MA and PhD in Comparative Literature (Philosophy, Literature, and Theory of Criticism program)

Research interests: phenomenology, logical systems, artificial intelligence, video games, disability and agency, originality and imitation

Teaching interests: existentialism, international relations, philosophy of medicine, science fiction, nationalism

Washington University in St. Louis (2021 – 2025)

BA in Global Studies and Philosophy

GPA: 3.91

Relevant coursework: Seminar on Dialectic of Enlightenment; Existential Thought; Gender Analysis for International Affairs; State Failure, Success, and Development; Intro to Real Analysis

Fellowships, Grants, & Awards

Teaching Assistantship, Binghamton University (2026 - present)

Teaching Experience

Teaching assistant:

COLI110: World Literature I, Binghamton University, Fall 2026 (Instructor-of-record: Professor Bailey Sincox)

Research Experience

Slices of Lives: A Diversity of Experiences Among Immigrant Restaurateurs in Yaoundé, Spring 2024, School for International Training (Yaoundé, Cameroon)

Conference Presentations

"The Enlightenment Doomed AI to be Helplessly Human," Undergraduate Philosophy Conference, University of Puget Sound, March 28, 2025

Service

Sexual Assault and Rape Anonymous Helpline, St. Louis, MO

Peer counselor (2022 - 2025) and external facilitator (2024 - 2025)

Languages

English (native)

French (proficient)